This webinar series explores twice-exceptional children from diverse viewpoints: their characteristics and needs, educational strategies, mental health supports, and collaboration approaches. Participants in this series will leave with practical, evidence-based strategies that allow them to advocate for and support these complex learners.

This training is intended for gifted education coordinators, specialists, and those with responsibility for planning school services for gifted students. At the time of registration, each attendee may also register one SPED or general ed classroom teacher to attend with them as a guest free of charge.
